Successful Post-War Planning Will Arise Only Through Education in Internationalism . . .

One of the most hopeful signs pointing toward a constructive settlement after this war is the internationalist movement which is springing from students in colleges and universities throughout the country.

University backers of the movement will be particularly encouraged in that this week will see the fulfillment of two of the most concrete moves to promote earnest, far-sighted thought on post-war plans and problems yet seen on this campus—the Northwest meeting of the International Relations Club and the Pan-American Student Forum sponsored student observance of Pan-American Day.

Winston Churchill's recent speech, looking ahead to the day when Hitler and his associates will be beaten into "death, dust and ashes," gave all the world an outline for a post-war plan—a plan that must be worked out and put into practice during our generation and in our world. Churchill's plan, which is intended to pile all mankind into one boat instead of allowing it to occupy individual national boats as it does now, can succeed only if the college men and women of today are trained and educated in internationalistic philosophy of living.

Obviously, this piling of all mankind into one boat will cause some difficulties—particularly when the question arises as to who shall steer the boat and who shall have the best seats. And further, it must be realized that if this single boat containing all humanity should strike a reef or a shoal, all civilization might go down in the wreck.

It is here that our responsibility as tomorrow's leaders weighs most heavily. And it is a responsibility we cannot shirk. With the opportunity of discussing the many phases and ideologies of post-war planning with such nationally known speakers as Amy Heminway Jones and Dr. Pitman B. Potter, we can't afford to let the chance pass unobserved.

Civilization must put an end to war before war puts an end to civilization — of that we're only too aware. Let us be equally cognizant of the vital necessity of getting at the true basics of the problem by first understanding its real causes.

Campus IRC Will Be Host For Conference

 will conduct the gatherings.

On Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Journalism Auditorium Dr. Pitman B. Potter will give a public address on the subject "Hard Facts About the Coming World Settlement." Dr. Potter, chairman of the Department of Political Science at Oberlin College, Ohio, has lectured extensively in this country. From 1932 to 1941 he served on the staff of the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva. In 1935 he acted as legal adviser to the Government of Ethiopia and later was a member of the Ethiopian-Italian Arbitration Commission.

A convocation will be given

Friday at 1:15 o'clock in the Journalism Auditorium on "Our International Agricultural Relations." The speaker, Mr. Harry E. Terrell of Des Moines, Ia., was a member of a group of American agricultural leaders who made a tour of the agricultural areas in Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina in 1941 under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment.

The officers of the local club are Warren A. Peterson, Helena, president; Mary Anderson, Ekalaka, secretary; and Elizabeth Spreull, Cranbrook, British Columbia, program chairman. Many other students are active in the conference committee work.

Gail Rounce, Sidney, is now serving as secretary of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, to replace Vicki Carkulis, Butte, who was graduated at the end of winter quarter.

Music Club Asks Audience For Recitals

Members of the Music Club are now volunteering their services to help increase student interest and participation in the regular weekly music recitals, reports Fay Buchholz, Polson, president of the organization.

Previously, students have performed on the recital programs upon request of the instructors each Friday afternoon. The plan, as it stands now, sets the recitals for 5 o'clock each Wednesday afternoon to give more students an opportunity to attend.

Members of Music Club volunteer each week to take charge of program arrangements, selecting talent and promoting publicity. University students as well as music majors are invited to attend the programs, Miss Buchholz said.

Next Wednesday's program, prepared by Bernice Granmo, Missoula, follows:

Two three-part "Inventions," piano solo, by Ruth Martin, Billings; Martha Clark and Donald Huck, both of Missoula, in a soprano and tenor duet presentation of "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Victor Herbert, and "Will You Remember?" from "Maytime."

"The Mill" and "Angel Gabriel," a Negro spiritual, will be presented by the string quartet. Members of the quartet are Bernice Enevoldsen, Billings, first violin; Fay Buchholz, second violin; Annabelle Peterson, Billings, viola, and Betty Cutts, Billings, cello.

By DICK KERN

Well, we've got our track story for today. It's about a Grizzly cinderman of a couple years ago.

This isn't a story of how he won the 440 against Whitman or his victory in the low hurdles against Idaho but it is the story of how Al Cullen died in service.

It is a peculiar situation when sports pages carry this type of copy but these are peculiar times and this type of story is more important than the regular run-of-the-mill write-up.

We knew Al when he went to school here. He used to work in the student store fountain dishing out cokes and talking with various hangers-on who had things to discuss or beefs to make. People like to talk with Al. He had the knack of listening to any kind of a conversation and then putting in his own two cents worth in such a way that it sounded like profound observation.

On the track, he was the same way. The railbirds who came out to watch the practices would give Al one glance and cross him off their list as being "all form and no drive." When Saturday came along Al would win two or three races and place second or third in some others and the railbirds would say "well I'll be darned."

Al was smiling the first day he came here to school and he was smiling when he left. He was the most even-tempered individual imaginable.

Al is gone now. A victim of a mad, stupid circumstance over which he had no control. He is one of a number who must inevitably give up their lives that we might preserve our status quo. We will preserve it, too, because there are a few million other Americans who feel about the same as Al on the subject and they are still very able to fight for it.

Taking part in this dance are Miss McCabe, Barbara Bishop and Patsy Elder, Missoula; Lorraine Griffith, Williston, N.D.; Virginia Frach, Great Falls; Mary Lou Marrs, Harlowtown; Nancy Buntin, Lewistown; and Julia Markel, Wallace, Ida.

From the high school will appear Tommie Lou Rush and Ernestine Benson singing duets; Dorothy Griffin, dancing the rumba; and Judith Elliott playing the guitar.

The Pan-American Student Forum has been invited to present their entertainment program Wednesday evening before the American Legion Auxiliary and the Rotary Club.

UP IN THE AIR

by reynolds

... this column is dedicated to the Army Air Forces College Training Detachment... Its intramural and physical education program, as well as highlights on some of the more outstanding athletes (and there are plenty of them from all over the West) that are in its ranks.

There has been much miscellaneous talk about the possibility of a softball league, as well as other competitive sports, being formed between University teams and Army Air Force squads. However, at the present, such a league is impossible, but Dr. W. E. Schreiber, who is in charge of the physical training of the Army lads has appointed Vince Wilson to head the Army intramural program which will be under way in a very few days. Charles Hertler, assistant professor in physical education, is in charge of all the floor classes and general physical fitness training for the Army boys.

The Army program is run on a six-day basis, five days a week of gym classes—calisthenics, boxing, wrestling, softball, touch football, track, basketball and obstacle course. The sixth day Saturday, will be given over to intramural sports, which will include softball, basketball, touch football and possibly one or two others. Later on in the season there is a possibility of evening games, but Dr. Schreiber said that no games will be played under the lights on Dornblaser field.

Vince Wilson is forming the Army into five softball leagues, of five or more teams in each league. At the end of the regular playing session the winners of the various leagues will play off for the championship of the Army Air Force.

When the University intramural softball league gets underway there definitely will be games played between Army teams and University squads if the fraternity teams want to play. Games may be played on Saturday or possibly in the evenings.

At the end of the University intramural softball season, there is a good chance that the top team or an all-star team will play the winners in the Army intramural league, for the championship of something or other.
